

AnewCare Collaborative ACO is excited to announce that we have added nurse practitioner Jessica Carr to our clinical team. She will be partnering with your care teams to extend your work by providing care in the home to help reinforce the Primary Care Provider's care plan and connect the patient to needed resources on behalf of the care team.

Our overall goal is to provide needed services, improve patients' transition experiences and avoid unnecessary hospitalizations and associated cost of care.

Building and Exploring New Services

As we continue to develop and shape these services, we will be working to ensure they complement the care you and your care teams already provide to patients. We will also work to ensure robust communication and collaboration as the program continues to develop and changes are made. You may also reach out at any time with questions or concerns.

In Home Follow-ups Post Discharge

Jessica will be completing in-home visits for high risk ACO patients upon discharge from a facility. These home visits will include a medication reconciliation, patient education, stabilization, and an assessment of social determinants of health and potential social needs. Depending on patient needs, Jessica will be connecting with your care management teams, the ACO care management team, and social work services to ensure patient needs are met.

Skilled Nursing Facility

Additionally, Jessica will be rounding on ACO patients who are in select SNF facilities. She will be partnering with the SNF care teams helping to monitor care and facilitate throughput in the facilities. Jessica will partner with the patient's primary care provider as needed.

Remote Patient Monitoring

Jessica will evaluate patients who are enrolled in our Remote Patient Monitoring Program. When a patient records abnormal biometric reading, our care management team will work with her and the patient's primary care provider to stabilize and treat the patient as needed.
